WEDDING

SWALM — LUFT
The United Missionary Church in Didsbury was the scene of a beautiful candle-light ceremony on August 20, at 7 p.m., when Joyce Elizabeth, second daughter of Adam J. Luft, became the bride of Elvyn Conrad Swalm.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Willard Swalm, assisted by Don Kroening. The bride looked lovely in a floor-length gown of net and lace. The lace bodice was simply styled with a round neckline and long lily point sleeves. The yoke of the dress was studded with a pearl and rhinestone design. This effect was also carried out in the small coronet-styled halo she wore. The full skirt was of net over taffeta, with long pointed lace penguins in front and back. An elbow-length veil of net frosted with lace completed her costume, while she carried a bouquet of red roses intertwined with white satin ribbon.

...was preceded down the aisle by her three attendants, Mrs. Dan Neufeld as matron of honor, and Misses Mildred and Marion Luft as bridesmaids. They were gownned alike in monochromatic shades of pink lace and net over taffeta. Their gloves and bandeaus were of matching colors and they carried bouquets of yellow, Ko Mo Mo and blue carnations respectively.

Miss Barbara Luft, a flower girl, was sweet in a blue lace and net over taffeta dress, trimmed with gold sequins and styled similarly to the bridesmaids' dresses. The color of her dress harmonized with the dresses of the soloist and pianist. She carried a nosegay of baby roses.

Candle-lighters were Misses Mildred Befus and Marion Bagshaw, whose costumes carried out the pink and blue theme.

Mr. Mervin Hall was best man and ushers were Mr. Ormand Sherrick, cousin of the groom, and Mr. Wilfred Luft, the bride's brother.

During the wedding ceremony Miss Opal Swalm sang "A Wedding Prayer" as the bride and groom knelt at the altar. During the

Westcott W.I. Sept. Meeting

The Westcott W.I. met at the Westcott United Church, with Mrs. Robert McFarlane as hostess, on Thursday, Sept. 3, with 20 members and two visitors present. Roll call was answered by each member giving a "Sunshine Report."

A donation of $10 is being sent to the Arthritis Fund. The president, Mrs. Cliff Eckstrand, reported on the meeting of A.C.W.W. delegates at the O.S.A. on Wednesday, September 2.

Mrs. William Baudist chose as her citizenship paper, articles from a pamphlet on "Universal Declaration of Human Rights and United Nations." The educational talk by Mrs. Walter Felker was an article from the Albertan on a case where a drowning victim, aged 10 months, was revived after five hours of artificial respiration. The heading: "He Was Dead For Five Hours."

Current events for July were given by Miss Deloyce Goetjen. The topic of discussion for the next meeting will be "Ideas for the coming chicken supper." Members are asked to come with new ideas.

signing of the register she sang "Holy Vow." Miss Helen Swalm accompanied on the piano. The bride's mother was gownned in a navy blue lace and crepe dress with pink lace at the throat and on the sleeves. The groom's mother wore a simply-styled dress of powder blue. Both mothers had corsages of roses.

The reception was held in the basement of Mountain View Bible College, which was suitably decorated for the occasion with pink and white streamers and bells, white bouquets of sweet peas decked the tables.

Rev. Willard Swalm, as master of ceremonies, called upon Jeanette Neufeld, who sang "O Perfect Love." Rev. Ray Shantz spoke a few words. Telegrams were read from J. A. Mitchell and Kay and Roy Reiffenstein.

After the reception the happy couple left for a honeymoon in Banff and Jasper. For travelling the bride wore an air force blue dress with pink accessories. Upon their return they will reside in Didsbury.

W.I. Members Meet With World Delegates

Many Women's Institute members from this district met with twenty-three members of the Associated Country Women of the World when they were guests at the O.S.A. on September 2. Local branches of the Alberta Women's Institute prepared a noon meal in the O.S.A. residences for the delegates and 80 women of the district.

Delegates represented the women's organizations in Australia, New Zealand, England, Ireland, Scotland, Sweden, Norway, the Union of South Africa, Japan, the United States and Canada. Fred H. Newcombe, director of extension for the provincial department of agriculture, was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. M. E. Dibble, Mrs. Otto Knecht and Mrs. B. St. Clair directed the preparation and serving of the dinner. J. E. Birdsall, principal of O.S.A., outlined the operation and functions of the provincial schools of agriculture at Oda, Vermilion and Fairview. Members of the staff were present to greet the women, who were touring areas surrounding Lethbridge, Calgary and Drumheller.

Lions To Sponsor Red Shield Appeal

The annual Red Shield Appeal of the Salvation Army will again be sponsored by the Lions Club of Didsbury, with Mr. A. E. Prevost as chairman, Mr. A. Reiber as secretary and Mr. C. E. Reiber as treasurer. The canvas commences on Wednesday, September 16 and it is hoped that the objective of $600 will be reached by the end of the month.

The Red Shield Appeal provides funds for the maintenance and extension of Salvation Army work in the province. Thousands every year find help and a new hope through the understanding heart and helping hand of its officers.

Following are a few statistics taken from the records in Canada in one year:

Beds and meals supplied — $1,244,218.

Girls admitted to receiving and maternity homes, 1718.

Infants born in Salvation Army institutions, 17,962.

Assisted in women's homes, 1015.

Infants cared for, 1718.

Infants born in Salvation Army institutions, 17,962.

Girls admitted to receiving and maternity homes, 1718.

Last year Didsbury and district raised $600 toward the maintenance of this work.

Unfortunately children, whether victims of bad environment or unexpected tragedy, evoke everyone's sympathy. The unwanted babe, the child of delinquent parents, the underprivileged, all need shielding. In Children's Homes, Fresh Air Camps and in many Children's Homes, the Salvation Army operates a broad program of character-building activities that makes for sound minds and healthy bodies, and guards the soul.

Four laundry trucks were purchased by the committee, at a cost of $80 each. These laundry trucks greatly facilitate the distribution of polo packs and fresh linen through the wards. Each one bears a plaque showing that it was donated by Didsbury community.

The remaining $244.53 has been sent to the hospital for the purchase of any equipment deemed necessary.

A very successful president versus vice-president tournament was held last Friday, with 12 members competing. The vice-president's team won, so they are now waiting to hear just what "treat" the losers have in store for them.

The regular competition will come to a close at the end of Friday's play. Only those with the full nine holes completed are eligible. At the time of going to press Mrs. Sam Devine is well in the lead with three birdies. Mrs. Devine is a comparative newcomer to golfing circles and is playing a very nice game.

I'm Burned To A Toast

By Kay Brook

Sometime ago, a rural housewife, in this magazine, announced that she was, figuratively speaking, turning a delicate, crispy, golden-brown, due to the accumulated frustrations of mal-order and discrepancies. The writer of the article you are currently reading, also a rural housewife, is likewise beginning to turn a toasty brown, on account of another hardy perennial frustration. By September 10, or thereabouts, I shall be ready for scraping into the kitchen sink.

My pet exasperation (mope and that of several hundred thousand other parents) is the annual schoolbook muddle. You know how that one operates, don't you? September 2—you see Grade Five John, Grade Four Mary, and little Grade One Joanie, onto the yellow school van, all equipped with new jeans, T-shirts, scampers, a pencil case, and a scribbler. Back they come at four o'clock, you meet them at the gate, and inquire, "What do you people need in the way of books?"

Chorus: "Teacher didn't say." — Because, usually, teacher doesn't know! After a week in which the kids review what they learned in the previous grade, all three come home one night, bearing like carefully mimographed by teacher in her so-called "spare time."

September 9 — You give John a five-dollar bill, carefully impress upon him the sacred responsibility re is carrying, give him back the lists, and tell him to go uptown at noon and get the books for himself and his younger siblings. At four o'clock, again you meet John and his relations at the gate. He hands back the five.

"Teacher says —" he chants (and frankly, I get very sated with the world-shaking solemnity of "Teacher says," throughout the year). "Teacher says, you country kids can't leave the playground unless it's for something awful important."

September 12 — Dad's trying to finish cutting and haying, with combining lurking just around the corner, so in spite of the ones that's screaming to be tucked away into cans, you take the faithful old family car and bump your ten, weary miles to town. Only to be told, on arrival at the drug store, that (a) the books haven't arrived at all yet, or (b) the town kids have bought them all and there won't be anymore for a week — At which point you temporarily forget that your mother tried to raise you as a kid.

September 18 — Teacher has all the books brought down to the classroom. John, Mary and Joanie bring home, not stating the required sum to be taken the next day to Teacher. You sign a cream cheque, race half a mile down to your neighbor's, get it cashed, and the kids are able to take their money the next morning. And, at long, long last, they are fully equipped to begin the school year. Now, in that annoying fashion of mothers, I want to know "why?"

Why this yearly muddle? Is it necessary? I doubt it. Most small-town schools know almost to a child what the enrolment for each grade will be the following year, so —

Why can't the divisional secretary put a list in every rural post office about the middle of July, telling parents exactly what books will be needed for which grade in the forthcoming semester?

Then, why can't the distributors of said books get them out to the various retail outlets generally in the forthcoming semester?

Parents would get all the necessary books well in advance of school-opening and spare themselves the harassed druggist and the overworked teacher, a great big, yearly, needless headache. This problem, in my considered opinion, is one for the attention of the influential women's groups, such as the Women's Institute, the Consumer Branches and the farm organization auxiliaries. How about it, ladies?

(The above was reprinted from the pages of The Country Guide at the request of one of our readers.)

The past is gone and static. Nothing we can do can change it. The future is before us and dynamic. Everything we do will affect it. Each day brings with it new frontiers, in our homes and in our business, if we will only recognize them. We are just at the beginning of progress in every field of human endeavor.

WEDDINGS

BROOKWELL — BOGNER

Jehovah Lutheran Church was the scene of a recent marriage when Helen Irene Bogner, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bogner, formerly of Didsbury, now of Calgary, and Robert Lawrence Brookwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Brookwell, of Edmonton, were joined in holy matrimony.

Rev. P. Unterschultz officiated at the service and the wedding music was played by Madeline Unterschultz.

The bride, given in marriage by her great-uncle, Mr. John Bogner, wore a gown styled with lily-point sleeves, a lace bodice and a neckline embroidered with seed pearls. Her satin skirt was topped with a double net overskirt, also embroidered with seed pearls. She wore a long embroidered veil, held in place by an orange blossom tiara, and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Bridesmaids and cousins of the bride, were Lilly Reinhardt, who wore a mauve net gown with lace bodice and cape, and Lily Bogner, who was dressed similarly in a pale green gown. Both bridesmaids carried bouquets of yellow Ko-Ko carnations. The flower girls, Linda Brookwell, sister of the groom, and Sharon Brookwell, niece of the groom, wore yellow net gowns and bandeaus of mauve carnations and carried nosegays of mauve carnations.

Before the bride entered Lorraine and Norman Bogner, cousins of the bride, sang "My Heavenly Father Watch Over Me," and during the signing of the register Norman Bogner sang "The Wedding Prayer."

Groomsmen were Bryce Varley and Fred Bogner, brother of the bride. Ushers were Frank Chapman, Ted Bogner and Albert Brookwell.

The scene of the reception was Gene's Ouline, which was decorated with pink and white streamers and white bells. Bryce Varley proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple propose to reside in Calgary after a honeymoon in the mountains.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Substance" is the title of the Lesson Sermon at Christian Science churches on Sunday. It includes this fine definition by St. Paul in his epistle to the Corinthians: "We look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen; for the things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are not seen are eternal." (2nd Cor. 4:18). And this statement from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The universe reflects and expresses the divine substance or Mind; therefore God is seen only in the spiritual universe and spiritual man, as the sun is seen in the ray of light which goes out from it." (300:38-51).

Mt. View W.I.
August Meeting

The August meeting of the Mountain View W.I. was at the home of Mrs. David Pratt with 13 members and nine visitors present. Minutes of the July meeting were read and adopted. The roll call was answered with "Hints On Deep Freezing Food."

Woolens are to be collected for a pair of blankets for the old folks. A donation of $2.00 is to be sent to the Canadian Arthritis Clinic. Mrs. Charles Snyder gave a splendid report on Farm Women's Week at Oids. Mrs. Booker gave a report on the conference of the country women of the world held recently in Toronto.

Mrs. Winnie Bittner was lucky in the "bit of fun" and Mrs. Ed Blain in the 10c draw, which netted $2.70. The hostess served a lovely lunch to complete the afternoon.

Genius is the quality of the special spirit, whether in poetry or politics or science, which raises a single locality or nation to influence the people of the world.

Dear Editor:

The letters start. Then from all over the free world come such comments as these from readers of THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR, an international daily newspaper:

"The Monitor is most reading for straight-thinking people."

"I returned to school after a lapse of 18 years. I will get my degree from the college, but my education comes from the Monitor."

"The Monitor gives me ideas for my work."

"I truly enjoy its company. You, too, will find the Monitor informative, with complete world news. You will discover a constructive viewpoint in every news story."

Fall Cultivation for Perennial Weeds: Many farmers do a good job at fallowing during the summer months, but when the rush of harvest begins the fallow is often neglected. This summer has been a poor one for many farmers in accomplishing a satisfactory fallow job on account of excessive rains and soft fields during most of the summer season.

Much land intended for fallow has been neglected simply because it was impossible to put machinery over it. Most of these weeds are ripe now and if not cut down or destroyed in some way will severely reinfest the ground.

Fall cultivation every ten days to two weeks through the entire harvest season and right up until freeze-up means time and money well spent. The last few strokes given perennial weeds in the fall can well be the most important ones to eradicate them.

Toad flax is one of the deep rooted, persistent perennials which requires at least one and sometimes two consecutive years of summer fallow to eradicate. More and more toad flax is showing up in new places each year. Be on the alert while harvesting. If you see any patches whether large or very small, mark them for future attention. If the small patches are caught and treated, they will not develop into large ones.

By REV. C. C. ARMSTRONG

About the same time that the report appeared concerning the fine work being done by the W.C.T.U. in the Calgary Herald. It revealed that legal machinery is a very clumsy instrument to deal with liquor problems, and underscores the fact that the Christian approach is so very necessary.

It seems that a car was being driven near Cochrane, weaving across the centre line, passing curves on the wrong side and forcing other cars to swerve to avoid collision. According to evidence in court, the police claimed the driver's breath smelled strongly of alcohol, but others in the car declared he had nothing to drink for about eight hours before his arrest. This indicates the necessity of using available methods of determining alcoholic content in the blood at the time of the offence. This can and ought to be done. However, the police thought the evidence sufficient and he was charged with driving while his ability was impaired.

The court found that another man, extremely drunk, had been in the front seat and that it was his intoxicated gymnastics that resulted in the weaving. The magistrate found the driver not guilty, but declared he should have been charged with dangerous driving.

It appears from this miserable fiasco that the police have no reliable method of determining degree of intoxication, and are therefore charged with dangerous driving, in order to make it stick. A sober man who allows a drunken fool to interfere with his driving so that it imperils others on the highway betrays a utter lack of any sense of moral responsibility and he ought to be disciplined.

In the meantime, those responsible for formulating and for enforcing the laws ought to keep in mind their basic purpose. Police, lawyers and magistrates are handicapped if they are independent, units, but a trinity designed to work together to preserve individual rights within a framework of social responsibilities.

From our point of view if a magistrate knows how an accused man should have been charged, then a well-informed lawyer would also know the answer to that one. And the services of such a lawyer should be available for the guidance of the police. If all dangerous driving must be further classified before a charge can be laid, something is surely necessary.

For a man responsible for driving under conditions which he could have prevented, conditions which made safe driving impossible, and nothing was done about it. Those conditions were due to drunkenness.

The W.C.T.U., the Associated Temperance Forces and others feel that the only sensible approach to alcoholism is through all agencies that are preventive and curative. Scientific knowledge, legal means, and moral character are all required to fulfill the Christian purpose. How can anyone be drunk about it who hasn't "think" about it?

DISTRICT NEWSM.V.B.C. NEWS

(From Our Own Correspondent)

The College has been fortunate in having both a hedge cutter and new wheelbarrow given it. Our caretaker has the plan, also, of a fine type of lawn mower, that will be easy to construct and will facilitate the cutting of our vast area of lawn.

Mr. Jake Miller and family, graduates of the College, were visitors for a few brief hours last Friday.

Rev. Gordon Dedels and family have spent the greater part of the week with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roy. Mr. Dedels was a patient in the hospital for a few days but said he was in good health Saturday and returned to his pastorate at Sundre.

Miss Joyce Burkholder, R.N., and student at the College, has been working with the College evangelistic team during the summer and will work on the staff of Beulah Home in Edmonton until school begins. She left on Thursday for Edmonton.

Student applications, both written and verbal, are coming in these days. It would seem that there will be many more young men this year than ladies. Some local young folk have enrolled and we expect there will yet be others who will be sending in their names this month.

The entire campus is looking more cheerful than it has for some time. When you pass the College take a good look at the white buildings freshly painted. Within a few days the large main building will be the project for the painters. This will be a task indeed, so we hope for good weather.

After a week of peas have been placed in the new deep freeze for winter use. This will add much to the meals during the winter months when greens and fresh vegetables are difficult to secure. The gardens put out by Mrs. Habermehl are yielding their produce abundantly.

It has been worthwhile to work at the lawns this summer. Some parts have never been seeded for lawn, but after cutting the grass periodically and keeping the edges trimmed we find that quite a nice lawn has resulted.

LEGION TO HOLD FISH DERBY

At the last regular meeting of the Legion zone executive, district 5, it was agreed that a Fish Derby would be held this year, and a committee was set up under the chairmanship of the zone sports officer to make all arrangements.

The event will be held at George Creek (west of Turner Valley) on Sunday, September 13. Entries will be received at the site.

There are prizes for different types of fish and any member of any branch of the Canadian Legion, their families or dependents, may enter.

While this is designed to be a Fish Derby, members are asked to bring along their families, who if they do not wish to fish, will have a very enjoyable day in the fresh air. The site chosen is very beautiful, the drive is scenic and all are promised a wonderful time.

WEDDINGS

FULKERTH — WALKER
 Highland United Church, Edmonton, was the setting of an attractive early afternoon wedding on Saturday, August 22, when Miss Florence Jean Walker of Verdun, Manitoba, exchanged vows with Mr. William James (Bill) Fulkert of Edmonton, in a double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with baskets of gladioli in pastel shades.

Rev. L. E. Barry performed the ceremony. The bride wore a dress with red accessories and a gown of cocktail length nylon tulle with lace and satin, accented by a matching lace bolero with ivory point sleeves. Her finger-tip veil was fastened to a pearl encrusted cap. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli and red roses.

Mr. Victor Westcott gave Miss Walker in marriage. She was attended by Miss Doris Fulkert, sister of the groom, and Miss Stephanie Badway of Edmonton. They were matching gowns of nylon net over taffeta with jackets and matching headresses in yellow and blue respectively, and carried bouquets of carnations and sweet peas in pastel shades.

The groom was attended by Mr. Wilbur Hanna and Mr. Dalt Skinner of Edmonton. Guests were ushered by Mr. Don Fulkert, brother of the groom, and Mr. Bill Blacklock.

During the signing of the register Miss Mary Hallet sang "Through The Years," accompanied by Miss Ellice Wester on the piano. Miss Wester also played the wedding music.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Freda Brinton, assisted the bride party.

For her nuptials the bride chose a son's wedding she chose navy blue nylon with white accessories and wore a wrist corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held later for 40 guests in the banquet room of the Corona hotel.

Following the cutting of the cake, the toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Rex Fulkert of Didsbury, uncle of the groom, and fittingly responded to by the groom.

Later in the evening the happy couple left for a honeymoon in Calgary and Banff. For travelling the bride chose a navy blue tailored in receiving the guests. For her gardenia corsage. On their return they will reside in Edmonton.

Notes From D.A.

HUGH McPHAIL

The following findings on the effect of harvesting a second cutting of alfalfa should be of interest to all those who cut a second crop of alfalfa.

Studies carried out recently by the Pests and Diseases Division, Lacombe Experimental Station, reveal more exactly the critical period in the fall of the year when the cutting of alfalfa results in severe winter-killing or winter-injury of the stand. An experiment was started in 1950 to determine just when this critical period occurs and the effect cutting at that time has on subsequent yield and persistence of the stand.

In each of the three years that this experiment has been conducted, the plots from which the second cutting of alfalfa was harvested during the last two weeks of August were the ones which suffered winter injury. These plots made one to two inches of regrowth prior to freeze-up while the plots cut after the end of August made practically no regrowth. It is apparent that the amount of regrowth made following the second cutting will determine largely the amount of winter injury that is likely to follow.

The second cutting should be made early enough to permit sufficient regrowth for replenishing plant food reserves in the roots or else it should be delayed until active growth has ceased.

QUESTION: Can cancer develop from chapped hands and lips?

ANSWER: A lip made repeatedly sore by the sun or weather may develop cancer. Many lip cancers seen in farmers are due to irritation by sunshine. Hands are more likely to develop cancers in areas that chafe easily.
